

Harvesting the Future

Showcasing Planning Students Research in Food Policy and Planning for Food

Planning Students (and recent Graduates!) are invited to submit two slides showcasing their research (or future research) related to food policy and planning for food. The slides will be shown at the 2010 OPPI Symposium – Healthy Communities and Planning for Food: A Harvest of Ideas which is taking place October 28th and 29th in Guelph.

The symposium will examine the many issues associated with food and how this relates to the planning profession and other key stakeholders interested in fostering healthy and sustainable communities. This two-day event will address the issues from both an urban and rural planning perspective. Over 300 planning professionals and participants are expected to attend.

In addition to featuring the student presentations at the symposium, the research will also be showcased on OPPI's website, e-Newsletter and Journal. This is a great opportunity to have your work seen by the over 3,500 OPPI members, many of whom are the key decision-makers in the planning profession.

The slide template and a sample can be downloaded from OPPI's website: <http://www.ontarioplanners.on.ca/content/symposium/index.aspx> Further information on the symposium can also be found on this page and all students are encouraged to attend this important educational and networking event. Don't miss this opportunity to profile your work.
